

Summary

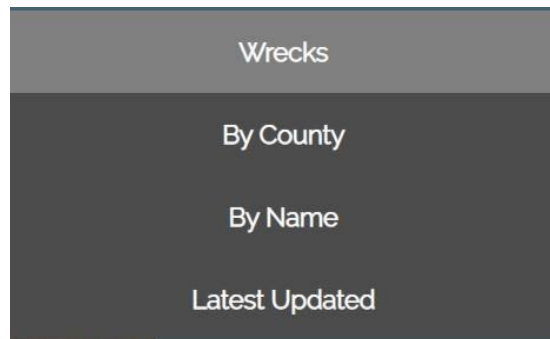

For re-designing www.irishwrecksonline.net, I wanted to go with friendly and professional website design, while also trying to keep it minimal like the original website. In the original website, I found it very difficult to be able to access the different parts of the website and saw that most of the buttons were either pictures or words, which you were told to click. To make this site more friendly I decided to make a navbar above from which you can access any part of the website. Also, with the original website it had weird animations and pictures that if you clicked on would open up unresponsive tabs. For this, I decided to go with just a plain website with words and simple background. I felt that the website is more user friendly and also more appealing to look at for people.
